“Digital technology is transforming how we communicate messages in immeasurable ways. Storytelling is moving away from traditional methods and embracing digital or “new” media. And while the media might be changing, the need for passionate and professional seekers of truth has never been more critical. New job functions, business models, and legal/ethical issues require that students have different skill sets and theoretical perspectives to reach the attention of 21st century viewers. The online Bachelor of Arts in Digital Journalism and Media can prepare you for the fast-changing field of digital journalism and other web-based communications careers, including multimedia storytelling, digital production, and digital media management.”

Why Penn State?

A Respected, High-Quality Education

In 1892, Penn State founded one of our nation's first correspondence courses. In 1998, we were one of the first major accredited universities to provide online education. We are committed to ensuring that you have access to a quality academic experience, even when you have job and family obligations to fulfill. Our digital journalism and media program has been developed through a partnership between Penn State's Donald P. Bellisario College of Communications and Penn State World Campus, a pioneer in providing global online access to a real university education.

Your online courses are the same academically challenging courses that are taught on campus. Yet they give you the flexibility and convenience to study wherever you are, at times that suit your own schedule.

Faculty

The courses in the Bachelor of Arts in Digital Journalism and Media program are designed and taught by Penn State professors whose teaching and research interests combine academic expertise and industry experience. They are leaders in their fields and experts in the subjects that they teach, and they are committed to making sure you get a quality academic experience in your online programs.

Employer Recognized and Accepted

The online undergraduate digital journalism and media program will carry the same Penn State commitment to high quality that is respected by employers everywhere. And when you graduate, your diploma will be the same as any other awarded by Penn State. Penn State World Campus is the real Penn State. The only difference is the way in which the courses are delivered to you.
